

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information display system capable of automatically acquiring necessary information from a facility information screen and registering the acquired information in an automotive navigation apparatus. The information display system includes a display for displaying a facility information screen, an information extractor for extracting position identification information from the facility information screen, a facility information registration unit for registering facility information including a specified point set on the basis of the position identification information, and a facility information storage unit for storing the registered facility information.